N'élevons pas nos enfants pour le monde d'aujourd'hui. Ce monde n'existera plus lorsqu'ils seront grands. Et rien ne nous permet de savoir quel monde sera le leur : alors, apprenons-leur à s'adapter." Près d'un siècle plus tard, comment ne pas souscrire à cette réflexion de Maria Montessori (1870-1952), pionnière de la pédagogie moderne ? Alors que nos sociétés connaissent des changements permanents, alors que les modèles d'autorité évoluent, l'exigence éducative apparaît plus que jamais comme une préoccupation majeure. Dans ce premier volume de la Pédagogie scientifique, publié pour la première fois en 1926, Maria Montessori évoque en particulier l'expérience fondatrice de la « Maison des enfants », une pré-école établie en 1907 dans un quartier populaire de Rome. Elle y développe les grandes intuitions d'une pédagogie où la «préparation du milieu» est la clef d'une éducation, d'une culture réelle de la personne humaine depuis la naissance. Première femme médecin d'Italie, Maria Montessori est l'héritière des idées pédagogiques de Jean-Jacques

Rousseau. Elle nous convie à considérer l'enfant comme une personne complexe et fragile, dotée de savoirs insoupçonnés. Ses vues étonnent par leur fraîcheur et leur pouvoir d'éveiller en chacun l'enfant qu'il a été."

'Here's a work arriving just at the right moment and contributing new insights at precisely the time when public opinion remains sceptical of the not very promising future we are preparing for our children, when governments balk at explaining to their electorates the vital but unpopular decisions that have to be taken and when civil society, with few ways and means, is finally becoming involved. This remarkable work will help all actors to understand the inter-linkages between economic activities and the environment in the Mediterranean Basin and take concerted, effective action to build a positive, sustainable future' Mohamed Ennabli, former Minister of the Environment and Land Use Planning, Tunisia 'The Blue Plan has carried out a remarkable assessment of the serious environmental problems and insufficiently targeted cooperation in the Mediterranean, and also of new financing systems to be implemented, which would increase the capacities of local authorities and economic and social partners' Georges Corm, former Minister of Finance, Lebanon The Mediterranean Basin and its surrounding countries is a microcosm of the environmental and sustainability challenges facing people across the world. Depending on the development path it takes in the future, the region can either become a positive model for the regional regulation of globalization, or, more onerously, it might reinforce global instability. This unique volume is the definitive, authoritative assessment of the environment and development of the Mediterranean Basin and its 22 countries and territories, spanning five decades from 30 years in the past to 20 years into the future. Produced by the Blue Plan within the framework of UNEP/Mediterranean Action Plan and backed by the EU and national governments, it brings together the work of more than 100 researchers from dozens of national, regional and local governments and research groups into the only comprehensive insight into sustainable development issues in the region. Core coverage includes water, energy, transport, cities, rural and coastal areas, as well as related issues such as climate change, population growth, geopolitical changes, unemployment and poverty, pollution, economic and environmental policies, regional cooperation and the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership. Information is clearly presented through hundreds of full-colour maps, graphs, tables and a wealth of case studies. This is a must-have reference for all levels of government, NGOs and libraries, as well as practitioners, academics and businesses involved in economics, natural resource management, land and maritime transport, water, energy, infrastructure, urban and rural development, agriculture, fishing and aquaculture, tourism and coastal management. Countries and territories covered: Spain, France, Italy, Monaco, Malta, Cyprus, Slovenia, Croatia, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Serbia and Montenegro, Albania, Greece, Turkey, Syria, Lebanon, Palestinian Territories, Israel, Egypt, Libya, Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco. Preface by Lucien Chabason, Chairman of the Blue Plan.

Some of the most prominent social and cultural anthropologists have come together in this volume to discuss Maurice Godelier's work. They explore and revisit some of the highly complex practices and structures social scientists encounter in their fieldwork. From the nature-culture debate to the fabrication of hereditary political systems, from transforming gender relations to the problems of the Christianization of indigenous peoples, these chapters demonstrate both the diversity of anthropological topics and the opportunity for constructive dialogue around shared methodological and theoretical models.

Les Livres du mois BRILL

"A novelistic mosaic that simultaneously reads like a thriller and like a strange, dreamlike excursion into the subconscious." —The New York Times Years ago, when House of Leaves was first being passed around, it was nothing more than a badly bundled heap of paper, parts of which would occasionally surface on the Internet.

No one could have anticipated the small but devoted following this terrifying story would soon command. Starting with an odd assortment of marginalized youth -- musicians, tattoo artists, programmers, strippers, environmentalists, and adrenaline junkies -- the book eventually made its way into the hands of older generations, who not only found themselves in those strangely arranged pages but also discovered a way back into the lives of their estranged children. Now this astonishing novel is made available in book form, complete with the original colored words, vertical footnotes, and second and third appendices. The story remains unchanged, focusing on a young family that moves into a small home on Ash Tree Lane where they discover something is terribly wrong: their house is bigger on the inside than it is on the outside. Of course, neither Pulitzer Prize-winning photojournalist Will Navidson nor his companion Karen Green was prepared to face the consequences of that impossibility, until the day their two little children wandered off and their voices eerily began to return another story -- of creature darkness, of an ever-growing abyss behind a closet door, and of that unholy growl which soon enough would tear through their walls and consume all their dreams.

On appelle "Moogo" l'espace étatique sahélo-soudanien, antérieur au territoire du Burkina Faso d'aujourd'hui, qui, à la fin du XIXe siècle, au moment de la conquête coloniale française, regroupait une vingtaine de formations politiques indépendantes dominées par l'ordre aristocratique des Moose, dont les deux importants royaumes de Ouagadougou (Waogdogo) et du Yatenga. On trouvera ici à la fois un bilan des travaux sur l'essor du Moogo et, comme le sous-titre de l'ouvrage l'indique, une "étude d'anthropologie historique" sur la formation de l'Etat africain et le développement sur la longue durée de ce type d'Etat.

Les campagnes de la cité de Béziers dans l'Antiquité

Nous sortons d'un monde et nous entrons dans un autre. La crise écologique entraîne une des révolutions les plus considérables de l'histoire de l'humanité. Mais cette révolution est encore insensible, presque imperceptible. Elle est due à l'action de l'homme, mais à son insu. Elle n'a été ni conçue, ni prévue, ni voulue par lui et pourtant son issue dépend de lui. Où nous mènera-t-elle ? Nous ne le savons pas encore. Ce que nous savons, c'est que l'humanité est à la croisée des chemins, son destin dépend de ses choix présents. Face à nos certitudes qui vacillent, la trilogie du Monde émergent nous entraîne dans cette profondeur de l'interrogation de l'homme sur lui-même, sur ses modes d'être, de penser et d'agir. Le présent volume porte sur les lieux d'émergence, c'est-à-dire les points névralgiques où les nouvelles questions se formulent (territoires, santé, migrations...). Un lieu est un carrefour où se croisent les données diverses touchant globalement les trois notions de territoire, de population et de citoyenneté. Ce volume a pour ambition d'éclairer nos choix moraux, politiques et écologiques dans un monde en crise.

Cinema and the Republic

This book analyses contemporary French films by focussing closely on cinematic representations of immigrants and residents of suburban housing estates known as banlieues. It begins by examining how these groups are conceived of within France's Republican political model before analysing films that focus on four key issues. Firstly, it will assess representations of undocumented migrants known as sans-papiers before then analysing depictions of deportations made possible by the controversial double peine law. Next, it will examine films about relations between young people and the police in suburban France before exploring films that challenge clichés about these areas. The conclusion assesses what these films show about contemporary French political cinema. Introduction Chapter One: Cinema and the Republic Chapter Two: The Sans-papiers on Screen – Contextualising Immigrant Experiences in Film Chapter Three: Double peine: The Challenges of Mobilising Support for Foreign Criminals via Cinema Chapter Four: Challenging or Perpetuating Clichés? Young People and the Police in France's Banlieues Chapter Five: Challenging Stereotypes about France's Banlieues by Shifting the Focus? Conclusion Notes Filmography and Bibliography Index

 'A clever, funny novel . . . a masterpiece of Parisian perfection'
 Duchess of Cornwall 'The very quintessence of French romance'
 The Times Bookseller Laurent Letellier comes across an abandoned handbag on a Parisian street, and feels impelled to return it to its owner. The bag contains no money, phone or contact information. But a small red notebook with handwritten thoughts and jottings reveals a person that Laurent would very much like to meet. Without even a name to go on, and only a few of her possessions to help him, how is he to find one woman in a city of millions?
