In 1987, eminent political philosopher Allan Bloom published The Closing of the American Mind, an appraisal of contemporary America that “hits with the approximate force and effect of electroshock therapy” (The New York Times) and has not only been vindicated, but has also become more urgent today. In clear, spirited prose, Bloom argues that the social and political crises of contemporary America are part of a larger intellectual crisis: the result of a dangerous narrowing of curiosity and exploration by the university elites. Now, in this twenty-fifth anniversary edition, acclaimed author and journalist Andrew Ferguson contributes a new essay that describes why Bloom’s argument caused such a furor at publication and why our culture so deeply resists its truths today. Closing of the American Mind Createspace Independent Publishing Platform Doing What Works: Literacy Strategies for the Next Level will assist educators as they support students in the mastery of vocabulary, comprehension, and study skills required by the Common Core State Standards. How Do Apples Grow? Corwin Press An unmissable collection of eight unconventional and captivating short stories for young and adult learners of Dutch. The answer: Word knowledge. Our students can't understand texts without knowing what words mean. It's that simple. Meanwhile, in our rush toward complex texts, somehow we forget to put a new systematic vocabulary plan in place. In Vocabulary Is Comprehension, Laura Robb provides the instructional plan. And just wait until you see the results! Laura's plan takes just 10 to 15 minutes, and much of it is spent in partner and independent work so this is no "add on" to squeeze in. Even better, all materials are included. Each lesson features a student reproducible along with 50+ pieces of short fiction, nonfiction, and poetry—or, if you prefer, use your own text. Here's how the plan works: Day 1: You read aloud the short text and students discuss the selected words in their context. Students work in pairs, rereading the text to understand words and phrases, and then share understandings as a class. Days 2 &amp; 3: Students finish partner work and complete the reproducible. Along the way, the 35+ lessons: Support complex text comprehension Cover academic vocabulary, synonyms, antonyms, multiple meanings, figurative language, denotative and connotative meanings, Greek and Latin roots, and more Address specific CCSS vocabulary and writing standards Include strategies for ELLs and developing readers, and formative assessments Link to a wealth of online reproducibles, words lists, and printable complex texts Laura surrounds these ready-to-teach lessons with the routines that help students read increasingly demanding texts across the curriculum. Students blog, tweet, and apply words in many different contexts . . . look out for related words in books, ads, and media . . . and many other collaborative activities that promote deep word knowledge rather than shallow word-defining. If you're looking for a resource that will make all the difference as you address the new reach for rigorous, complex text reading, Vocabulary Is Comprehension is it. An author, teacher, coach, and speaker, LAURA ROBB has spent the last four decades in middle school education. What teachers appreciate most about Laura is her deep commitment to children and adolescents, and her ability to show what best-practice instruction looks like day by day; a survey conducted by Instructor magazine named Laura as one of the nation's top twenty educators. Currently, in addition to her speaking and consulting, she works part time in grades K-8. Vocabulary Connections American Library Association An unmissable collection of eight unconventional and captivating short stories for young adult and adult intermediate learners of Korean. For many years, blogs have been used as a medium for facilitating communication and sharing ideas among different groups of society. Language learning has similarly benefitted from this technological advancement. It has been investigated in numerous research studies that language learners can benefit from blog assisted language learning in a variety of different ways. In this book, the adequacy of blogging on increasing the vocabulary level of students and improving their grammatical accuracy is investigated. This book is particularly suitable for language teachers and researchers in computer assisted language learning programs to understand major potentials of this innovative pedagogical system and students' reactions to it.

By the end of English 5, the students will be able to read, understand, write, summarize and structure information graphically that is presented in different types of texts written in English related to social, economic, scientific and technological progress of humanity. The purpose of English 5 of the series named Competent, is to provide English teachers with the material to cover in detail the fifth course of five from the DGETI system. Series' goal: Students are expected to reach a B1 level according to the Common European Framework (CEF). at the end of the English program. This means, students must be able to do what is described for levels A1, A2, and B1. This is the goal of the English program at DGETI at the end of the five courses. It is expected that at the end of this fifth course, which may be considered a transition level between A2 and B1, the students will have developed skills at a higher A2 level and skills at a basic B1 level according to the CEF. B1 level is described as follows: The person is able to understand the main points of clear texts in standard language if they are about familiar topics, in work, school, or leisure situations. The person can perform in most of the situations that he/she can face when travelling in places where the target language is used. The person can produce simple and coherent texts that are familiar to him or her or are of his or her personal interest. The person is able to describe personal experiences, facts, wishes and desires, as well as briefly justify his or her opinions or explain his or her plans. The structure of English five is related to five central types of texts: Instructive, Narrative, Descriptive, Informative, and Exposition . Students will apply language functions according to the selected texts, emphasizing reading comprehension and diverse strategies and techniques for reading comprehension: • Intensive reading. • Make predictions (graphs, icons, typography). • Visualize. • Ask and answer questions. • Narrate and summarize. • Connect the text to life experiences, to other texts, or to previous knowledge. • Scanning (referrals, inferences, prefixes / suffixes). • Skimming (main and secondary ideas). • Graphic organizers (concept maps, mind maps, charts, graphs, etc.). During the five courses, the students participate in activities to practice language functions and reading strategies. In addition, activities to develop other productive competencies are included. Key features: The three steps of DGETI programs: Opening activities, Development and End of Unit evaluation, Five units, 15 lessons, Types of texts, Reading strategies, Vocabulary building sections. Wordwise aims to enhance students' use of a wide range of vocabulary and to increase their understanding of the derivation and origin of words. The words in the book have been chosen to consolidate student knowledge of commonly used, mature vocabulary and to introduce more specialised vocabulary to extend students' repertoire of language. The book is divided into forty units with each unit focusing on one aspect of vocabulary development. The focus may be technical e.g. prefixes, homophones, possessives etc; or related to context e.g. investigation words, number words, Australian words, legal words etc. Wordwise is activity based to encourage students to use the words so that they can remember them more easily. Each unit consists of a list of keywords followed by activities using the keywords and related vocabulary focusing on: - meaning - use in context - word derivation and origin - spelling hints Answers for these activities are provided in the back of the book.

In a raucous debut that summons up Britain's fabled Goon Squad comedies, writer and philosopher Lars Iyer tells the story of someone very like himself with a "slightly more successful" friend and their journeys in search of more palatable literary conferences and better gin. One reason for their journeys: the narrator's home is slowly being taken over by a fungus that no one seems to know what to do about. Before it completely swallows his house, the narrator feels compelled to solve some major philosophical questions (such as "Why?") and the meaning of his urge to write, as well as the source of the fungus ... before it is too late. Or, he has to move.
