The hero cycles of Arabic belong to the literary tradition of The Arabian Nights and can be seen as the popular epics of their civilisation. Published in three volumes, the first introduces the background to the cycles, while the second analyses their contents and literary formulae. The epitomes surveyed in the final volume provide further insight into their literary nuances.

The unnamed narrator of this story is a wildly successful novelist and celebrity who lives in Paris with his wife Esther, a war correspondent who speaks four languages. Their marriage has hit a dry spot and she is restless, wanting to move on in search of her own happiness. When Esther disappears, he is tormented and traumatized by the mystery of what has happened to her. Has she been kidnapped, killed, or has she left him for another lover? The narrator has had plenty of success in his life: well attended book signings, power lunches with film industry people, and interviews with journalists. But it all leaves him with a sour taste in his mouth. He remembers a story by Jorge Luis Borges about a mystical coin: "A year later, I wake thinking about the story by Borges, about something which, once touched or seen, can never be forgotten, and which gradually so fills our thoughts that we are driven to madness. My Zahir is not a romantic metaphor - a blind man, a compass, a tiger, or a coin. It has a name, and her name is Esther." The narrator's struggle is that of a man as trying to come to terms with something he cannot understand or control: the mystery of Esther's absence. It is very hard for him to let go of his feeling that she is the only one who fills his life with meaning. The inner journey he takes opens him up to new possibilities. Then Mikhail, the last person Esther was seen with, contacts the narrator and promises to take him to her. Mikhail, a young man who works with unhappily married couples, has his own spiritual perspective on love. Coelho has not created a masterwork on the level of The Alchemist, but for those who are willing to travel lightly, there are some interesting insights here on obsessive love, the emptiness of celebrity-status success, and the courage needed to square off against the mysteries and rewards of letting go of ego and stepping into the dark unknown.

This volume contains 24 papers, presented at the sixth, seventh and eighth Colloquium on the History of Egypt and Syria in the Fatimid, Ayyubid and Mamluk Eras, organized at the University of Leuven in May 1997, 1998 and 1999. The main purpose of these annual colloquia is to bring together an international body of scholars from different fields of research, around the central theme of Syro-Egypt's high and late medieval history. Resulting now in a third volume of this kind (volume I: OLA 73 - volume II: OLA 83), these proceedings again cover areas of research in the fields of medieval sociology, economy, archaeology, codicology, theology and administrative and political history, ranging from the 10th to the late 15th century AD. The individual contributions deal with a great number of topics, including Syro-Egyptian society and architecture, the Crusades, aspects of civil and military administration and organisation, role and value of pious endowments, and the intricacies of Syro-Egyptian politics.

Physiognomy and ekphrasis are two of the most important modes of description in antiquity and represent the necessary precursors of scientific description. The primary way of divining the characteristics and fate of an individual, whether inborn or acquired, was to observe the patient's external characteristics and behaviour. This volume focuses initially on two types of descriptive literature in Mesopotamia: physiognomic omens and what we might call ekphrastic description. These modalities are traced through ancient India, Ugaritic and the Hebrew Bible, before arriving at the physiognomic features of famous historical figures such as Themistocles, Socrates or Augustus in the Graeco-Roman world, where physiognomic discussions become intertwined with typological analyses of human characters. The Arabic compendial culture absorbed and remade these different physiognomic and ekphrastic traditions, incorporating both Mesopotamian links between physiognomy and medicine and the interest in characterological 'types' that had emerged in the Hellenistic period. This volume offer the first wide-ranging picture of these modalities of description in antiquity.

Territorial borders, identity borders, and many other kinds of social and cultural borders are constantly questioned in Israel-Palestine. Reapproaching Borders: New Perspectives on the Study of Israel-Palestine explores the concept of borders, how they are imagined and actualized in this deeply contested land. The book focuses on the 'implicate relations' between Palestinian Arabs and Jews, providing new insights into the origins and dynamics of the conflicts between them. Emphasizing the history of the non-elite members of both communities, the book sees the relations between Jews and Palestinian Arabs as embedded and reflected in areas of daily living, such as in the spheres of architecture, commerce, health sexuality, and the courts. Using the voices of the new generation of scholars, Reapproaching Borders demonstrates the continued saliency of older themes such as ownership and rights to the land, but as they intersect with the newer areas of inquiry, such as sexual identity politics and spatial relations.

Een internationaal beroemde schrijver is zo druk doende met zijn literaire werk en de plichtplegingen die dat met zich meebrengt, dat hij niet in de gaten heeft dat hij zich langzaam van zijn vrouw, Esther, verwijdert. Zij was de vrouw die hem zover gekregen had datgene te doen wat hij werkelijk wilde: een boek schrijven. Dat boek, over een pelgrimstocht naar Santiago, beleefde een stille triomf over de wereld en werd gevolgd door een mondiale bestseller over een jongen die op zoek gaat naar een schat. Op het toppunt van zijn roem, wanneer zij in Parijs bij hem is ingetrokken, neemt Esther het besluit oorlogscorrespondente te worden. Ze wil weten waarom de mensen niet gelukkig zijn en denkt daar achter te komen in een oorlogssituatie. Het laatst wordt zij in Parijs gezien met een man met Mongoolse trekken. Dan is ze ineens verdwenen en verdenkt men in eerste instantie de schrijver hiermee iets van doen te hebben. Wat volgt is een lange tocht waarin hij naar zijn verdwenen geliefde op zoek is, een odyssee die hem de ruimte geeft na te denken over zijn relatie met Esther, over de liefde en over verdwijnende culturen waarin liefde een centrale plaats heeft.

Between the ninth and the fifteenth centuries, Central Asia was a major political, economic and cultural hub on the Eurasian continent. In the first half of the thirteenth century it was also the pre-eminent centre of power in the largest land-based empire the world has ever seen. This third volume of Christoph Baumer's extensively praised and lavishly illustrated new history of the region is above all a story of invasion, when tumultuous and often brutal conquest profoundly shaped the later history of the globe. The author explores the rise of Islam and the remarkable victories of the Arab armies which - inspired by their vital, austere and egalitarian desert faith - established important new dynasties like the Seljuks, Karakhanids and Ghaznavids. A golden age of artistic, literary and scientific innovation came to a sudden end when, between 1219 and 1260, Genghis Khan and his successors overran the Chorasmian-Abbasid lands. Dr Baumer shows that the Mongol conquests, while shattering to their enemies, nevertheless resulted in much greater mercantile and cultural contact between Central Asia and Western Europe.

„Fiecare poveste de dragoste este o călătorie“ – iată deviza sub care stă romanul al Paulo Coelho. Un scriitor stabilit la Paris, adulat de public, dar privit cu scepticism de critică, descoperă că soția lui, corespondent de război, a dispărut fără urmă. A fost răpită, șantajată, ori s-a săturat de căsnicie pur și simplu? Scriitorul începe s-o caute și ajunge până în Asia Centrală. Soția devine pentru el un „Zahir“, o entitate de neocolit, care îl tulbură până la obsesie și să-l învâluie treptat în această stare de „posedare“ totală, pendulând incert între sfințenie și nebunie. Mai mult, „Zahirul“ îl smulge din siguranța lumii sale și îl mână, pe căi necunoscute, în căutarea unei noi înțelegeri despre esența iubirii și forța destinului. Cu Zahir, Paulo Coelho dă încă o dovadă a marelui său talent de povestitor captivant, dar oferă și o perspectivă proprie asupra rosturilor ființei umane într-o lume plină de neprevăzut.

A focus on the way in which Muslim scholars of the Hanafite school of Muslim law, from the 10th-12th centuries, adapted their legal norms to changing circumstances and distinguished between legal and ethical norms, religious and legal status, legal propositions and religious judgment. The introduction links this debate to the sociology of law and spells out the distinction between theology and law in Islam.
