The title of this book is Techniques in Corporate Manpower Planning: Methods and Applications. Manpower planning, also called personnel planning, implies the analysis of possible discrepancies in the future between personnel demand and supply. Personnel demand will also be called personnel requirement; and personnel supply, personnel availability. The notion of corporate manpower planning refers to the planning of personnel on the level of an industrial or governmental organization. As such, it does not stand for manpower planning for branches of industries or labor market studies of countries or international communities. One type of manpower planning is the planning of short-term successions of managers or the assignment planning of positions for individual employees for the next year. In fact, this type of short-term manpower planning is always executed, whether formally or informally, centrally or other wise. Another type of manpower planning, however, may be executed to match the requirement for and availability of personnel for the medium and long term. This type of manpower planning considers groups of employees rather than individuals. Our goal is to consider medium- and long-term manpower planning for groups of employees. We call this the multicategory VII VIII PREFACE approach to manpower planning. In our view, this medium-and long-term personnel planning provides the conditions for individual manpower planning or for personnel development.

Scientific Study from the year 2020 in the subject Leadership and Human Resources - Recruiting, grade: 1,3, University of Yaounde II (Institut Universitaire Saint Jean Paul II), course: Human Resource Management, language: English, abstract: The research work has as objective to investigate the effect of "manpower planning on the evolution of an organisation, the case of NFC Bank Head Office Yaounde 1 Cameroon". The main research question is "to analyse the extent to which manpower planning impact an organisation in its evolution." And we had as specific questions the following "how do recruitment, selection and appraisal influences the growth of an organisation." "Do training and development have an impact on the employees of an organisation?" The reason for this research was due to the fact that during my internship period at NFC Bank S.A. I observed several problems such as employee turnover, jobs that needed a higher number of employees and some that needed a lesser number of employees, some employees where complaining about their working timetable just to name a few. All these urged me to carry out a research on the Manpower planning of NFC Bank S.A. It integrates quantitative and qualitative methods. Data was collected from primary and secondary sources, the simple random sampling method was use on a sample population of 60 workers and the sample size was 50 workers. Data collected are presented in tables and analysed using percentages, frequency tables and charts.
