Paralegal Time Sheet Book - May Edition Wolters Kluwer

This report looks closely at how lawyers at major law firms track their billable hours and other hours worked. The study helps its readers to answer questions such as: how often do lawyers record their billable and other hours? What are the penalties for tardy or non-submission of timesheets? How do lawyers record time while on the road and how does this differ from their practices while in the office? What percentage of lawyers use paper, or laptops, desktops, tablets or smartphones to record time? How often do they underestimate billable hours for fear of over-billing clients when they lose track of hours worked? What is the economic cost of such actions? What are the most popular billing apps and software programs? What do lawyers recommend to their peers, in terms of apps, software and firm-wide time tracking and billing policies?

Written as a quick starter for legal professionals who want to automate their legal forms using HotDocs, this book offers step-by-step explanations of how HotDocs can be used with word processing to improve the document production process. Written by Bruce W. Miller, who is an international corporate tax lawyer, the intent of the book is to help lawyers and other legal professionals increase their productivity by quickly learning the fundamentals and acquiring a working knowledge of HotDocs for Windows. The book contains interactive lessons ranging from generating a document from a HotDocs template to inserting conditional text and creating custom dialogs. The book also contains a concluding section that explores HotDoc's more advanced features, such as creating multiple-choice and computation variables. FOA Grain Storage Elevators in Pakistan
