Faking it. Most of us have done it. Maybe at a job interview, on a date, or maybe even faking it in the bedroom. I'm guilty for sure. In fact, I've never had an orgasm in my life. So, when the editor of the biggest women's magazine was in desperate need of a substitute writer, and asked me to write an article called "How to Have Fantastic Multiple Orgasms," I faked it again. Acting like an expert, I gladly accepted the assignment. I just hadn't expected that the research consisted of interviewing a male escort known as The King of Multiple Orgasms. Journalism graduate, Michelle Nestor, nails her article thanks to expert advice from a gigolo, Jake King, and now the magazine wants Jake to consult on an entire series about sex advice for women. Gina Godard, the senior writer, is back from sick leave and takes over the project, kicking Michelle to the curb. However, Jake King saves the day for Michelle, demanding her as his interviewer. It quickly becomes clear to Jake that Michelle's never had an orgasm before, so imagine her surprise when Jake suggest a little showing instead of telling.
