COVID-19 is the most significant global crisis of any of our lifetimes. The numbers have been stupefying, whether of infection and mortality, the scale of public health measures, or the economic consequences of shutdown. Coronavirus Politics identifies key threads in the global comparative discussion that continue to shed light on COVID-19 and shape debates about what it means for scholarship in health and comparative politics. Editors Scott L. Greer, Elizabeth J. King, Elize Massard da Fonseca, and André Peralta-Santos bring together over 30 authors versed in politics and the health issues in order to understand the health policy decisions, the public health interventions, the social policy decisions, their interactions, and the reasons. The book's coverage is global, with a wide range of key and exemplary countries, and contains a mixture of comparative, thematic, and templated country studies. All go beyond reporting and monitoring to develop explanations that draw on the authors' expertise while engaging in structured conversations across the book.

Effects of the 1986 Drought on Streamflow in Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia Yale University Press

The book presents different perspectives on the novel coronavirus and the COVID-19 pandemic. The authors address prevention measures; including clothing, diet and the social habits. Most likely the pandemic will shift the economy through innovation to a service economy. A large sector can benefit by promoting products of value to those locked up or restrained in their activity.

John Trenear, an 84 year old widower, lives alone in a bleak London tower block. He has turned away from a world he finds alien, its customs and beliefs so different from the Christian simplicities of his Cornish childhood. He tweets not, neither does he watch TV. Consequently, when the coronavirus strikes and lockdown is imposed, he has no idea what is happening; Corona to him means only the fizzy soft drink he enjoyed as a child. On VE Day there are no Corona bottles being opened with an explosion of fizz, as they had in the merry street party he remembers: indeed the streets below his flat are incomprehensibly empty. But the day brings him added confusion and distress, for it appears that something called a 'hate crime' has been committed. Corona Man, a study of old age, confusion and isolation, is both very poignant and very funny.

ScholarlyEditions Readers follow the main character, MaryEllen, through a story that details experiences during the Coronavirus pandemic. The goal of this story is to shed light on a time of uncertainty and fear in a child-friendly way.

My hopes are to help children understand this unprecedented time while learning to cope with difficult feelings. Additionally, I hope to spread appreciation for the heroes of this time and portray the power of a positive mindset. This story: - Explains what happened during the pandemic - Talks about how it may have made people feel - Explains key terms such as "social distancing" - Highlights heroes during the time such as medical workers, grocery store employees, first responders, delivery service workers, and teachers - Ends on a positive note with powerful advice to children living through difficult times Why purchase this book?: - Give children a character to relate to during this time - Help struggling children find a positive mindset - Explain this unprecedented time to your current OR future children, grandchildren, students - Keepsake in a baby bin/box - Give children something from this time they can look back on & use to explain this time they lived through to their future children - Pregnant, adopting, or plan on having children in the future? Questions will arise about this time in history and this story is a wonderful way to gently teach children about the pandemic This book includes: - A rhythmic story with colorful, hand painted illustrations - A "This Book Belongs to" page - Fill in the blank page for age/activities/ quarantined with during the pandemic - A note from the author - A "WASH YOUR HANDS!" poster in the back of the book Thank you for taking the time to read about this book! If you purchase, I want you to know my goal is 100% customer satisfaction. I spent endless hours perfecting this story for young minds and I hope it is everything you expect and more!

I didn't want to spend the pandemic with just my husband (much as I love him). And I didn't want to give in to fear or sit around lamenting the loss of control over normal life. So I began writing, and I couldn't stop. When Katie Couric accepted my first essay on tips for getting through the corona crisis for her newsletter, Wake-Up Call, RAMONA ON CORONA was born.

Katie gave me free rein to draw from my musings to create a weekly humor series, including how to wash a zucchini in a pandemic, stay married to a hoarder husband (paper goods, aisle 7 in our basement), FaceTime your plumber who can walk you through a major leak. RAMONA grew into a weekly column and now she is a book of 46 essays that I hope will resonate with you, make you laugh and touch your heart. I hope the memories enshrined here and the lessons learned will help bring meaning to what we all went through.

Journey through the early years of Corona with Jason D. Antos and Constantine E.

Theodosiou as they highlight the iconic features that help make up the borough of Queens. Nestled between old Newtown (today's Elmhurst) and the village of Flushing in the borough of Queens lies Corona. Blessed with an enchanting landscape, the area attracted development as early as 1854, when the West Flushing Land Company sought to create a suburban residential neighborhood in its midst. For Corona's cherished way of life, represented by Colonial-era farms, dirt roads, and gaslight streetlamps, this marked a distinct break from the past. Developer Benjamin Hitchcock's novel installment-plan system had helped place Corona on the map for good by 1870, laying down a historical precedent for later communities like Forest Hills and Jackson Heights to take shape. Before Mets baseball and the US Open were fixtures on the local scene, New Yorkers flocked to the National Race Course, one of the first such complexes in the entire country, for an exciting day at the races. Meanwhile, in its Corona-based factory, the Tiffany Glass Company forged distinctive lamps and glassware that in time would become world famous.

 Janet Abramson's poems express moods from panic to grief to acceptance and ultimately to joy to reveal the lived experience of the pandemic. From haiku to fully articulated dreamscapes, flashes of humor, even euphoria alternating with meditations on the tragedy of the human condition, these poems invite the reader to experience the words of Ram Das, "Be here now."
