Alexander Guilmant was a French organist, teacher, composer, and editor. Guilmant spent much time editing and publishing works of other composers, and his own music was influenced by Liszt, Schumann, Franck and Saint-Saens. The Morceau Symphonique, Opus 88, is composed for trombone and piano. Separate trombone part is included with the score.

Georg Kopprasch was born sometime before 1800, pursued a career as a horn player at least until 1832, and composed two sets of horn etudes which includes this set of 60 etudes, Op. 6. Most of the etudes focus on technical problems relating to the high range of the Horn. 46 pages.

Because there are virtually no resources that discuss the salient aspects of solo trombone repertoire, this document offers a thorough study of Morceau Symphonique by Alexandre Guilmant and Cavatine by Camille Saint-Saëns. For many trombonists, these pieces represent the beginning of the standard repertoire; therefore, they are a logical place to begin the process of providing such resources for the instrument. For both pieces, the historical components provide information about the climate surrounding the composer at the time the piece was written; an analysis of structural and theoretical constructs with each piece offers a phrase-by-phrase presentation. The interpretation of each piece, the primary focus of this document, was highly influenced by the research. It is my hope that my work will inspire more such studies of the trombone repertoire. Ultimately, students preparing for collegiate auditions will use this document to form their own opinions about these two wonderful pieces.

(Southern Music). Andante et Allegro for Trombone and Piano was composed for the annual trombone competition at the National Conservatory in Paris in 1935. The beautifully lyrical Andante provides wonderfully expressive phrasing opportunities while challenging the trombonist with quick and agile yet soft and legato figures. The contrasting Allegro gives vent to the brilliant, virtuosic possibilities of the instrument.

The Low Brass Player's Guide to Doubling is a guide for low brass players who wish to learn a different low brass instrument. By performing well on several instruments, doublers become more complete musicians, regardless of the instrument being played at any given moment. Taking up a secondary instrument will introduce you to new composers, repertoire, and ideas that will enhance your musicianship. Doubling necessitates more thoughtful playing and leads to more thoughtful teaching; your resulting instruction becomes more effective on every instrument you teach. Playing more instruments will also increase your earning potential! The Low Brass Player's Guide to Doubling includes chapters devoted to: tenor trombonists doubling on bass trombone; bass trombonists doubling on tenor trombone; trombonists doubling on euphonium; trombonists doubling on tuba; tuba players doubling on euphonium; euphonium and tuba players doubling on trombone; alto trombone; contrabass trombone; bass trumpet; and cimbasso. Also included are fingering charts, overtone series charts and targeted fundamentals for each instrument. The targeted fundamentals are designed to help players learn the new instrument efficiently by extracting fundamental skills unique to the new instrument.
