90 years of documentary film - Richard Leacock's multi-format memoir, "The Feeling of Being There", published as a printed Book and a Digital Video Book. - "The Feeling of Being There" is a riveting autobiographical epic spanning almost the entire history of cinema, seen through the eyes of one of its leading players. - From "Canary Bananas", his first film in 1935, to "A Musical Adventure in Siberia", the memoir traces Leacock's personal life as a filmmaker and observer of key moments in the 20th century, filming with Flaherty, Drew Associates, Pennebaker, and many others. - Richly illustrated, the exclusive book contains more than 290 drawings, photos and film stills. Always at the forefront of new technologies, Leacock's memoir is published as a book accompanied by a DVB (Digital Video Book) containing more than 100 film excerpts, richly intertwined with the gripping storyline. Read more about the memoir project on www.canarybananafilms.com.

Marcelline n'est pas un personnage fictif. Marcelline a quitté ce monde il y a quelques temps. Percluse de rhumatismes, elle avait dépassé les 75 ans et s'étiolait petit à petit, mais en gardant toute sa tête. Avant de relater ses mémoires, je devrais dire ses déboires, elle était le souffre-douleur d'une famille comprenant la grand-mère, la mère, le père qui ne l'était pas, une soeur et un beau-frère. Elle était "la bonne à tout faire" de cette fratrie. Petite exception pour la grand-mère, la matriarche de cette tribu ne s'occupant que de son business: son bordel. Après l'inceste dans sa préadolescence par son beau-père, elle est livrée par lui et sa complice de femme, aux pulsions sexuelles des mâles du village et des environs moyennant rétribution cela va de soi. La vie de Marcelline se passe dans une région un peu reculée de moyenne montagne. La vie y est rude et les moeurs également: incestes, viols, pédophilie, meurtres, collaboration dans la France occupée, dénonciations, trahison... Les gens des villes passant dans ces villages s'émerveillent de la beauté des paysages, de leurs tranquillités ou il fait bon vivre, de la gentillesse des habitants... Des urbains se sont installés afin d'y passer une retraite paisible en achetant à bas prix les maisons vides du village et de ses hameaux. Ces nouveaux villageois restent pour les autochtones des étrangers. Jamais ils n'apprendront les travers de ces hommes, de ces femmes de la France très profonde. Une chape de plomb écrase de son poids les histoires sordides perpétrées dans la moiteur des alcôves. Marcelline n'est pas un cas unique. Dans beaucoup de villages de notre pays, d'autres Marcelline vivent ou ont vécu ainsi. Dans ce nouveau monde numérique, la société commence à peine à prendre conscience: les femmes ne sont pas que des "bonnes à tout faire" dans tous les sens du terme.

Silent Film Comedy was a fortuitous combination of art and technology, where the physical comedy skills and artistry passed down from the Commedia dell'Arte, English music hall, and American vaudeville were captured for posterity by the newly created motion picture camera. While the Chaplins, Keatons, and Laurel & Hardys are still remembered and celebrated, this book profiles unsung practitioners such as Billie Ritchie, Marcel Perez, Lige Conley, and George Rowe, with special focus on the neglected comediennes Alice Howell, Gale Henry, Fay Tincher, and Josie Sadler. Popular icons on the order of Mack Sennett, Marie Dressler, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, and W.C. Fields are re-examined, plus detailed histories of silent comedy teams and kid's comedies are offered. The book also includes selected filmographies and is lavishly illustrated with more than 225 rarely-seen photographs and advertising images. Steve Massa is a leading enthusiast of silent comedy, who has devoted 45 years to researching the genre. A librarian in the Billy Rose Theatre Collection at the New York Public Library for the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center, he has organized comedy film programs for the Museum of Modern Art, the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian Institution, and the Pordenone Silent Film Festival. In addition to consulting with the Eye Film Institute, Netherlands and other archives, and writing for film journals such as Griffithiana, he is a founding member of Silent Cinema Presentations which produces NYC's Silent Clown Film Series. Steve has also contributed articles and commentary tracks to many comedy DVD collections such as The Forgotten Films of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, Becoming Charley Chase, and Kino Video's Buster Keaton: The Short Films Collection. From The New York Times: (click here for full review) These are films that only survive because they were reissued in 16-millimeter by companies catering to the home movie market before the days of VHS — hence the title of Mr. Model's collection, "Accidentally Preserved." Here, accompanied by program notes by Steve Massa (whose fine book on neglected silent comics, "Lame Brains and Lunatics," was recently published by BearManor Media), are films featuring classic broad slapstick with stars like Paul Parrott and Clyde Cook, as well as extremely rare work by comedians like Wallace Lupino and Neal Burns, who followed Lloyd into more naturalistic characterizations.

After Thought Basic Books

During the recent years there is a growing concern for the conservation and management of our rivers, reservoirs and many aquatic ecosystems including wetlands, beels and lakes. All these systems are mismanaged due to lack of scientific data and proper evaluation of ecosystem functions to evolve an approach towards a right management. There are serious water problems and most of the river waters are not used even for irrigation and swimming purposes due to the poor water quality. The aim of this book is to provide its readers an acquaintance of the ecology of waterbodies from different parts of India. For this purpose 15 papers including reviews contributed by experts from different educational institutions and research laboratories have been arranged from reservoirs, ponds and tanks to major rivers. The book will be highly useful to research workers in aquatic biology, planners, managers, conservationists, NGO s environmental scientists and all those who are interested in environmental conservation and management. Contents Chapter 1: Conservation and management of freshwaters; Chapter 2: Observations on zooplanktonic community analysis and trends in Gandhisagar reservoir with relation to its eutrophication; Chapter 3: Comparative study of species distribution and density in a non-polluted and polluted reservoir; Chapter 4: Hydrogeochemistry of the vellayani lake, kerala with special reference to its drinking water potential; Chapter 5: Environmental case studies of some central Indian reservoirs for management; Chapter 6: Observations on the present status of Indian wetlands with special reference to undasa wetland ujjain, mp state;

Chapter 7: Indices of macrophytic species density in some ponds of durg-bhilai city and their relationship with water quality; Chapter 8: Observations on the limnological aspects of a perennial tank in banglore; Chapter 9: Pearsall s cationic ration as an index of trophy in some desert waters; Chapter 10: Variations in active mitotic index of trapa bispinosa on treating with Cd, Cr and Zn; Chapter 11: Physico-chemical features of freshwaters of kashmir, himalaya; Chapter 12: Studies of river pollution in tungabhadra with special reference to biotic organisms; Chapter 13: Diatom dominance in river narmada head water stretch; Chapter 14: Effect of high discharge fluctuations on the distribution of phytoplankton in the narmada plains; Chapter 15: Self sustainability of tambarraparani river basin by aquatic macrophytes.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle was a silent comedy trailblazer--the teacher of Buster Keaton, a collaborator of Charlie Chaplin—whose reputation was eclipsed for many years by his involvement in one of Hollywood's first scandals. Rediscovering Roscoe is a film by film examination of his work as a performer, director, and all around comedy creator. Having learned and developed his craft on the stage, Arbuckle came to films in 1909. After joining Mack Sennett's Keystone Company he became one of the most important pioneers of American silent comedy, as well as a screen icon known around the world. This filmography details his initial forays into films and mastering of the medium, but also his banishment from the screen and ultimate comeback. It is lavishly illustrated with more than 500 rare photographs and advertising images. Steve Massa is the author of Slapstick Divas: The Women of Silent Comedy, Lame Brains and Lunatics: The Good, The Bad, and the Forgotten of Silent Comedy, and Marcel Perez: The International Mirth-Maker.

This book rethinks the study of European Cinema in a way that centres on students and their needs, in a comprehensive volume introducing undergraduates to the main discourses, directions and genres of twenty-first-century European film. Importantly, this collection is the first of its kind to apply a transversal approach to European Cinema, bringing together the East and the West, while providing a broad picture of key trends, aesthetics, genres, national identities, and transnational concerns. Lewis and Canning's collection effectively addresses some of the most pressing questions in contemporary European film, such as ecology, migration, industry, identity, disability, memory, auteurship, genre, small cinemas, and the national and international frameworks which underpin them. Combining accessible original research with a thorough grounding in recent histories and contexts, each chapter includes key definitions, reflective group questions, and a summative case study. Overall, this book makes a strong contribution to our understanding of recent European Cinema, making it an invaluable resource for lecturers and students across a variety of film-centred modules.

An in-depth treatment of cutting-edge work being done internationally to develop new techniques in crop nutritional quality improvement
Phytonutritional

Improvement of Crops explores recent advances in biotechnological methods for the nutritional enrichment of food crops. Featuring contributions from an international group of experts in the field, it provides cutting-edge information on techniques of immense importance to academic, professional and commercial operations. World population is now estimated to be 7.5 billion people, with an annual growth rate of nearly 1.5%. Clearly, the need to enhance not only the quantity of food produced but its quality has never been greater, especially among less developed nations. Genetic manipulation offers the best prospect for achieving that goal. As many fruit crops provide proven health benefits, research efforts need to be focused on improving the nutritional qualities of fruits and vegetables through increased synthesis of lycopene and beta carotene, anthocyanins and some phenolics known to be strong antioxidants. Despite tremendous growth in the area occurring over the past several decades, the work has only just begun. This book represents an effort to address the urgent need to promote those efforts and to mobilise the tools of biotechnical and genetic engineering of the major food crops. Topics covered include: New applications of RNA-interference and virus induced gene silencing (VIGS) for nutritional genomics in crop plants Biotechnological techniques for enhancing carotenoid in crops and their implications for both human health and sustainable development Progress being made in the enrichment and metabolic profiling of diverse carotenoids in a range of fruit crops, including tomatoes, sweet potatoes and tropical fruits Biotechnologies for boosting the phytonutritional values of key crops, including grapes and sweet potatoes Recent progress in the development of transgenic rice engineered to massively accumulate flavonoids in-seed Phytonutritional Improvement of Crops is an important text/reference that belongs in all universities and research establishments where agriculture, horticulture, biological sciences, and food science and technology are studied, taught and applied. Encyclopedia of French Film Directors Harry Langdon, a comic who appeared in Vaudeville, silent movies, and sound film comedies, held a unique position in Hollywood history. After a slow start in movies, he joined Keystone, the famous Mack Sennett studio. Langdon's screen character was quite different from the broad slapstick that was popular at the time. When paired with director Frank Capra in films such as The Strong Man (1926), Tramp, Tramp, Tramp (1926), and Long Pants (1927), he rivaled Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, and Harold Lloyd. Chuck Harter and Michael J. Hayde's biography includes a comprehensive Filmography. Lavishly illustrated. "You can hear the laughter flowing through the book. Langdon's comic timing was about taking enough time to figure out a situation. The reader should do the same, and not rush through these wonderful pages." - Brad Linaweaver, Mondo Cult "[The authors] have done a great service for comedy aficionados and historians, offering up a cornucopia of information on every one of Langdon's screen appearances, rare photos, vintage magazine articles, and more. If you have any interest in Harry Langdon, this book is invaluable. - Leonard Maltin in Leonard Maltin's Movie Crazy

 In The Complete Book of 1960s Broadway Musicals, Dan Dietz examines every musical and revue that opened on Broadway during the 1960s. In addition to providing details on every hit and flop, Dietz includes revivals and one-man and one-woman shows that centered on stars like Jack Benny, Maurice Chevalier, Marlene Dietrich, Danny Kaye, Yves Montand, and Lena Horne. In addition to entries for each production, the book offers numerous appendixes: a discography, film and television versions, published scripts, Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, and lists of productions by the New York City Center Light Opera Company, the New York City Opera Company, and the Music Theatre of Lincoln Center.
