This is further reinforced in the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command's Pamphlet 525-3-1, The U.S. Army Operating Concept: Win in a Complex World, 19 Aug 2010. This describes Army forces operating as part of a joint, interorganizational, and multinational force to accomplish the mission and win in a complex world. This is an environment that is not only unknown but unknowable and constantly changing. Furthermore, experiences gleaned from operations in Afghanistan, Iraq, Kuwait, Syria, Russian aggression in Europe, and the pandemic in Africa highlight the complexity, uncertainty, interdependence, and speed with which events can escalate. Topics contained in this handbook include: -- Build the command and control architecture -- Form the joint headquarters -- Plan and operate in the joint/combined environment -- Integrate force enablers -- Leverage joint, interorganizational, and multinational processes

The DoD cannot meet its global commitments without continued reserve participation. The Army Reserve (AR) provides critical combat support & combat service support units, such as medical & transportation units, to the Army. AR members historically could expect to train one weekend a month & 2 weeks a year with activations for limited deployments Since Sept. 11 some have been called upon to support ongoing military operations for a year or more. Thia report: (1) identifies the challenges the AR faces in continuing to support overseas operations; & (2) assesses the extent to which the Army & AR have taken steps to improve the AR's readiness for future missions. Includes recommendations. Charts & tables.

This regulation encompasses garrison, field, and subsistence supply operations. Specifically, this regulation comprises Army Staff and major Army command responsibilities and includes responsibilities for the Installation Management Command and subordinate regions. It also establishes policy for the adoption of an à la carte dining facility and for watercraft to provide subsistence when underway or in dock. Additionally, the regulation identifies DOD 7000.14-R as the source of meal rates for reimbursement purposes; delegates the approval authority for catered meals and host nation meals from Headquarters, Department of the Army to the Army commands; and authorizes the use of the Government purchase card for subsistence purchases when in the best interest of the Government. This regulation allows prime vendors as the source of garrison supply and pricing and provides garrison menu standards in accordance with The Surgeon General's nutrition standards for feeding military personnel. Also, included is guidance for the implementation of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food Recovery Program.
