A 'wilful extremist' according to the London Times, H el ene Cixous is hailed as one of the most formidable writers and thinkers of our time. Acclaimed by luminaries such as Jacques Derrida, her writing has nonetheless been misunderstood and misread, to a surprising extent. With the inclusion of Stigmata, one of her greatest works into the Routledge Classics series, this is about to change. Questions that have long concerned her - the self and the other, autobiographies of writing, sexual difference, literary theory, post-colonial theory, death and life - are explored here, woven into a stunning narrative.

Displaying a remarkable virtuosity, the work of Cixous is heady stuff indeed: exciting, powerful, moving, and dangerous.

The rapidity of postwar globalization and the structural changes it has brought to both social and spatial aspects of everyday life has meant, in France as elsewhere, the destabilizing of senses of place, identity, and belonging, as once familiar, local environments are increasingly de-localized and made porous to global trends and planetary preoccupations. Maps and Territories identifies such preoccupations as a fundamental underlying impetus for the contemporary French novel. Indeed, like France itself, the protagonists of its best fiction are constantly called upon to renegotiate their identity in order to maintain any sense of belonging within the troubled territories they call home. Maps and Territories reads today's French novel for how it re-maps such territories, and for how it positions its protagonists vis-à-vis the pressures of globalization, uncovering previously unseen affinities amongst, and offering fresh readings of-and offering exciting new perspectives on-a diverse set of authors: namely, Michel Houellebecq, Chloé Delaume, Lydie Salvayre, Jean-Philippe Toussaint, Virginie Despentes, Philippe Vasset, Jean Rolin, and Marie Darrieussecq. In the process, it sets the literary works into dialogue with a range of today's most influential theorists of postmodernity and globalization, including Paul Virilio, Marc Augé, Peter Sloterdijk, Bruno Latour, Fredric Jameson, Edward Casey, David Harvey, and Ursula K. Heise.

Prix Pulitzer pour Martin Dressler, le roman d'un rêveur américain, prix Médicis étranger pour La vie trop brève d'Edwin Mulhouse, Steven Millhauser est sans doute le plus européen des écrivains américains - le plus singulier aussi -, à la fois neveu de Kafka, d'Hoffmann et de Nabokov. Seul cet explorateur intrépide de l'inaperçu et de l'invisible pouvait revisiter avec autant de grâce les légendes de notre enfance et franchir la fragile frontière entre le rêve et la réalité. Dans ce conte enchanteur, on ne côtoie pas de fées, mais on succombe avec délectation et inquiétude à la magie d'une chaude nuit où la touffeur et les bruits étranges font sortir le rêveur de son grenier, l'homme de sa nostalgie, la fillette encore sage de son lit, le mannequin de son immobilité, les jouets abandonnés de leur sommeil... Le raffinement et l'élégance d'une écriture poétique et minutieuse consolent la discrète tristesse de ces vies incomplètes, entre deux songes, qui se croisent sans se connaître, avant que nuit ne meure.

This is a study of the nine prose fiction works of Christiane Rochefort written between 1958 and 1988. Despite establishment recognition and a popular mass-market following, Christiane Rochefort has hitherto received little critical attention. Her fiction forms an approachable learning tool for all students of post-war French politics and culture; the bestseller "Les Petits Enfants du Siècle" is a set text in schools and universities in the UK and the USA. This novel of growing up in the working class high-rises of Paris, written in the language of the streets, provides a child-centred view of a young girl's social, political and sexual awakening. The study looks at each novel in turn and applies close attention to the narrative sophistication and political subversion of the books. Certain contemporary themes run through her work - the status of children, language as an instrument of oppression and subversion, homosexuality, incest and child abuse. Each chapter of this book provides cultural and socio-political background material.

A work of fantasy, I Who Have Never Known Men is the haunting and unforgettable account of a near future on a barren earth where women are kept in underground cages guarded by uniformed groups of men. It is narrated by the youngest of the women, the only one with no memory of what the world was like before the cages, who must teach herself, without books or sexual contact, the essential human emotions of longing, loving, learning, companionship, and dying. Part thriller, part mystery, I Who Have Never Known Men shows us the power of one person without memories to reinvent herself piece by piece, emotion by emotion, in the process teaching us much about what it means to be human.

Hélène Cixous is among the most influential and original literary critics and feminist thinkers of our time. This volume reproduces - for the first time, in any language - a collection of pages from her original writing notebooks, offering a unique insight into her radical thought and work. The material gathered here ranges across the full spectrum of Cixous' writing, including the concept of écriture féminine, and the starting points and sources of inspiration for her poetry and prose. The editor's introduction succinctly outlines the central tenets of Cixous' theory of writing. Each extract is accompanied by editorial commentary and a translation, both by Susan Sellers. The book concludes with an interview with Cixous herself, in which she discusses the writing process, her own criticism, fiction and poetry and the value and importance of these notebooks. Students and teachers of literature, psychoanalysis, philosophy and feminist theory will find this an illuminating and inspiring collection of writings. Edited by Susan Sellers, Professor of English and Related Literature at the University of St Andrews.

the market for paintings in Europe, the value of paintings, production, distribution and demand for art objects. I Who Have Never Known Men Routledge While translation history in Canada is well documented, the history of the translation of Canadian fiction outside the nation remains obscure. Les Belles Étrangères examines the translation of Canadian English-language fiction in France. This book considers the history of this practice, the reasons for the move away from Quebec translators as well as the process and perils involved in this detour. Within a theoretical framework and drawing on primary sources, this study considers the historical, theoretical, and concrete aspects of this practice through the study of the translations of authors such as Robertson Davies, Carol Shields, Margaret Atwood, Michael Ondaatje, Ann-Marie MacDonald, and Alistair MacLeod. The book also includes a comprehensive bibliography of English-language novels, poetry, and plays published and translated in France over the past 240 years.

The Rules of Art Editions Albin Michel Définir de façon univalente la notion de mythe et celle d'utopie semble en soi une entreprise tout à fait utopique. Par ailleurs, jumeler les deux notions, celle du mythe et celle d'utopie, relève d'un processus de réflexion qui peut facilement être à double tranchant: le mythe, construction par excellence de l'imaginaire humain, ne se situe-t-il pas ailleurs que dans un non-lieu? -- et l'utopie, quant à elle, ne fait-elle pas écho au mythe, à la fois s'en inspirant, le niant et le transformant? Redondance possible, et aussi, parfois, refus des deux domaines à admettre leur interdépendance, cheminement parallèle surtout et création commune de ce qui, en fin de compte, s'avère mythe transformé, utopie revistée. Toutefois, mythes et utopies quels que soient la position choisie, le point de vue défendu, semblent faire bon ménage, à en juger par ce projet, mavec dix-neuf textes couvrant principalement la littérature contemporaine des femmes, mais puisant parfois aux oeuvres antérieures qui ont déjà préparé le terrain, en offrant des visions d'existences idylliques -- ne serait-ce que littéraires.

« Je pense souvent à ce qu'il restera, à ce qu'Erwan gardera de moi, de son enfance, j'aimerais saisir, révéler ses sensations sur la pellicule photographique, graver nos instants, craignant que l'amour ne disparaisse avec les souvenirs, graver l'odeur du jasmin quand nous nous approchons de notre maison, odeur de la stabilité du lieu intérieur malgré les désordres de mon cœur, contre la violence extérieure, réelle ou imaginaire, de la mer, des hommes. » À travers la voix incandescente de Madame Akli, Nina Bouraoui nous offre un roman brûlant, sensuel et poétique qui réunit toutes ses obsessions littéraires : l'enfance qui s'achève, l'amour qui s'égare, le désir qui fait perdre la raison. Genève, 1904. Les jeunes mariés Katherine Dexter et Stanley McCormick posent pour la photo sur la pelouse de Prangins, le château de Katherine. A 29 ans, délicieuse innocente, elle est la première femme docteur ès sciences du M.I.T., et l'une des dirigeantes du mouvement féministe. Lui est le plus jeune fils de Cyrus et Nettie McCormick, les inventeurs de la moissonneuse-batteuse. Mondains et millionnaires, Stanley et Katherine sont les mariés de l'année - qui plus est, ils semblent amoureux... Mais Stanley ne va pas bien. Bientôt, il entend des voix et n'arrive plus à contrôler ses accès de violence à l'égard des femmes. Il agresse même la sienne, qu'il aime tendrement. Le diagnostic tombe : Stanley devra être enfermé à Riven Rock, un institut spécialisé. Il ne doit plus voir de femmes. Jamais ! Dès lors, Katherine observe son mari aux jumelles, accroupie dans un massif de bégonias, et attend, telle une naturaliste étudiant les habitudes de quelque animal sauvage. Elle revient chaque année, apportant des cadeaux et des nouvelles du monde extérieur. Un jour, espère-t-elle, un des psychiatres qu'elle a engagés lui rendra Stanley, débarrassé de ses démons et aspirant à l'amour... T.C. Boyle nous conte dans ce roman le destin d'un couple hors du commun, produit de l'histoire américaine - couple mythique, partagé entre l'amour, la violence, les combats du monde extérieur et la fidélité aux êtres chers. T.C. Boyle vit près de Santa Barbara dans une maison dessinée par l'architecte Frank Lloyd Wright. Il est l'auteur de trois recueils de nouvelles et de six romans dont Water Music, Au bout du monde, Aux bons soins du docteur Kellogg et America qui a obtenu en 1997 le prix Médicis étranger.

Written with verve and intensity (and a good bit of wordplay), this is the long-awaited study of Flaubert and the modern literary field that constitutes the definitive work on the sociology of art by one of the world's leading social theorists. Drawing upon the history of literature and art from the mid-nineteenth century to the present, Bourdieu develops an original theory of art conceived as an autonomous value. He argues powerfully against those who refuse to acknowledge the interconnection between art and the structures of social relations within which it is produced and received. As Bourdieu shows, art's new autonomy is one such structure, which complicates but does not eliminate the interconnection. The literary universe as we know it today took shape in the nineteenth century as a space set apart from the approved academies of the state. No one could any longer dictate what ought to be written or decree the canons of good taste. Recognition and consecration were produced in and through the struggle in which writers, critics, and publishers confronted one another.
