Warfare and the Age of Printing (4 vols.)

BRILL

Avec ce dixième volume du Temps immobile, Claude Mauriac arrive au terme d'une oeuvre qui vit le jour en 1957 devant la tour Saint-Jacques. De ces milliers de pages qui témoigneront longtemps en faveur de notre siècle on a souligné, ailleurs et souvent, la portée singulière : voulaient-elles permettre l'irruption du Nouveau Roman dans le journal intime ? S'agissait-il au contraire, de prolonger la sage folie d'Amiel ou la ferveur des Goncourt ? L'avenir en décidera, qui seul offre son vrai profil à la rêverie des écrivains. De François Mauriac à de Gaulle, de Foucault à Genet, de Cocteau à Clavel ou à Mitterrand, de Paris à Malagar, cette chronique a capturé nos saisons dans son filet de mots et d'épiphanies, et elle les tient à jamais, intelligibles enfin. L'oncle Marcel, cet autre grand chasseur de temps est au rendez-vous de cet ultime épisode. Ce dernier volume comporte un index des noms cités dans le Temps immobile.

L'évolution des méthodes et des outils de l'amélioration des plantes est très dépendante de l'évolution des connaissances en biologie et plus particulièrement en génétique. Ainsi, les études du passage du génome aux caractères, par les développements de la génétique physiologique et moléculaire, sont à la base aujourd'hui des nouveaux outils de l'amélioration des plantes. Cet ouvrage original est une invitation à explorer les aventures de ces deux disciplines – génétique et amélioration des plantes – tout en découvrant les hommes et les femmes qui les ont animées.

Catalogue of the London Library, St. James Square, London

An important part of the Dutch national treasure of early printed books from before 1801 on military and related subjects is kept in military libraries and collections. This catalogue contains 10,000 books in twelve different languages dated 1500–1800 from nine different Defence institutions/collections, representing both Army and Navy. By far the largest collections are the property of the Royal Netherlands Army Museum in Delft and the Royal Netherlands Military Academy in Breda. A great if not substantial part of these books is especially of international significance because of the contents, the intrinsic value or as historical objects. It took eight years to trace and describe these books, all of which have been given extensive analytical bibliographic descriptions. The book is a project of the Royal Netherlands Army Museum, Delft

Colonized by the French in 1830, Algeria was an important French settler colony that, unlike its neighbors, endured a lengthy and brutal war for independence from 1954 to 1962. The nearly one million Pieds-Noirs (literally "black-feet") were former French citizens of Algeria who suffered a traumatic departure from their homes and discrimination upon arrival in France. In response, the once heterogeneous group unified as a community as it struggled to maintain an identity and keep the memory of colonial Algeria alive. Remembering French Algeria examines the written and visual re-creation of Algeria by the former French citizens of Algeria from 1962 to the present. By detailing the preservation and transmission of memory prompted by this traumatic experience, Amy L. Hubbell demonstrates how colonial identity is encountered, reworked, and sustained in Pied-Noir literature and film, with the device of repetition functioning in these literary and visual texts to create a unified and nostalgic version of the past. At the same time, however, the Pieds-Noirs' compulsion to return compromises these efforts. Taking Albert Camus's Le Mythe de Sisyphe and his subsequent essays on ruins as a metaphor for Pied-Noir identity, this book studies autobiographical accounts by Marie Cardinal, Jacques Derrida, Hélène Cixous, and Leïla Sebbar, as well as lesser-known Algerian-born French citizens, to analyze movement as a destabilizing and productive approach to the past.

Molluscs are the most common invertebrate remains found at archaeological sites, but archaeomalacology (the study of molluscs in archaeological contexts) is a relatively new archaeological discipline and the field of zooarchaeology is seen by many as one mainly focused on the remains of vertebrates. The papers in this volume hope to redress this balance, bringing molluscan studies into mainstream zooarchaeological and archaeological debate, and resulting in a monograph with a truly international flavour.
