The main aim of this book is to teach learners how to use Persian grammar in contexts. Language learners learn to use Persian language grammar through doing some tasks (e.g., agreement, disagreement, explanation, reasoning, comparison, etc.). As the mere memorization of the grammars does not guarantee that language learners can use them effectively, different tasks were provided so that they can use the grammars in different contexts. The book is most suitable for intermediate learners. The extensive glossary is also a great help. It is not a self-study book, however. A good instructor can make a big change. You will have very good progress both in Persian Grammar and Speaking. Learners need to complete a 40 hours Persian course prior to using this book. Very VERY HAPPY! Purchased by language teachers, and language Learners from Both US and Europe. THANK YOU.

This book focuses on the idea of Academic Persian in the growing competition of many Middle Eastern languages to produce and highlight their academic discourse. Similar to academic English, most West Asian languages including Persian, Turkish, and Arabic are developing new styles and genres to produce academic texts. The book addresses a major question: "What is academic Persian?" Intended for researchers, experts, analysts, policy-makers, and students in Persian, Iranian studies, and Islamic studies, as well as Near Eastern languages and Middle Eastern cultures and languages, the book includes numerous technical contributions on the emerging markets involving west Asian languages. Since indexing, abstracting, crawling, metrics, citations, and visibility are becoming hot issues for academics, service providers (e.g., publishers) and policy-makers (e.g., university heads), a knowledge of academic Persian will help readers to grasp what Persian, and other similar languages, require in academic markets.

Mr Elwell-Sutton's book provides a simple grammatical framework for contemporary written Persian. It is based on the characteristic idiom and phraseology of the language as it is used in newspapers, magazines and novels. The student is introduced to Persian script from the first lesson. Words are fully vocalized in the early lessons, but vowels are progressively discarded; they are, however, shown in the vocabulary. The letter-forms of printed Persian are used cursive scripts. Although the structure of the language is Mr Elwell-Sutton's immediate concern, he has given close attention to the need for acquiring a workable vocabulary. The examples and exercises thus require only a limited vocabulary of words in fairly common use - about 1500 in all. The student is also given help with pronunciation; at the ends of lessons sample sentences from the exercises are printed with diacritics showing the intonation and stress of each syllable. At the end of the book there is a key to the lessons.

The Pishi and Pasha language book series help you master conversational Farsi in a simple, fun, and interactive way, one book at a time. The content focuses on basic to advanced sentence structure and the use of language in real-life conversational contexts. We do not believe in learning through memorization of single words, even for younger learners. From the very beginning, we teach the language based on a communicative approach, through the formation and use of sentences in relevant contexts. The theory behind our content is to learn the basic sentence structure first, and then, build on the initial knowledge by applying it to new contexts. The illustrations throughout the books are complementary to the educational content and create a fun visual learning context to help you along your language learning journey! Book 1 teaches you the basic sentence structure in Farsi and elaborates on the use of the "be" verb in Simple Present to express emotions. Just like English, the "be" verb is used in Farsi to talk about things like name, occupation, nationality, quality, emotions, time, and place. In this book, you will learn a range of emotion-related vocabulary as well as the basic grammar knowledge you need in order to make simple sentences with the "be" verb in both affirmative and negative forms.
