On September 21, 2012, twenty-five year old David Villalobos purchased a pass for the Bronx Zoo and a ticket for a ride on the Bengali Express Monorail. Biding his time, he waited until the monorail was just near the enclosure of a four hundred pound Siberian tiger named Bashuta before leaping into it. They spent ten long minutes together in the tiger's cage before nature took its course, with one exception: The tiger did not kill him. David's only response: "It's a spiritual thing. I wanted to be at one with the tiger." One with The Tiger: On Savagery and Intimacy uses David's story, and other moments of violent encounters between humans and predators, to explore the line between human and animal. Exposing what the author defines as the "shared liminal space between peace and violence," Church posits that the animal is always encroaching on the civilization —and those seeking its wildness are in fact searching for an ecstatic moment that can define what it means to be human. Using examples from Timothy Treadwell to Mike Tyson, or such television icons as Grizzly Adams and The Incredible Hulk, Church shows how this ecstasy can seep its way into the less natural world of popular culture, proving time and again that each of us can be our own worst predator.

Wie gut, dass es Kinder gibt, die sich um den Klimaschutz kümmern. Mädchen wie Greta. Und Jungs wie Gustav. Erinnert ihr euch noch an den zehnjährigen Kölner, den wir euch in Heft 8/2019 vorgestellt haben? Gustav hatte Anfang des Jahres in GEOlino gelesen, dass die italienische Stadt Bologna ihren Bürgern klimafreundliches Verhalten versüßt. Wer mit dem Fahrrad statt mit dem Auto fährt, kann sich dadurch Eisgutscheine verdienen. Coole Idee, fand Gustav – und stellte sie im Rat seiner Stadt vor. Die Ratsherren waren begeistert und unterstützten Gustav, seinen Vorschlag umzusetzen. Den ganzen September hindurch gab es darum in Köln Eis für junge Klimaschützer. Jungen und Mädchen, die viel Rad fahren, wurden mit Gratiskugeln belohnt. Und Gustav? Kämpft längst dafür, die Aktion rasch zu wiederholen.

With its distinctive, comical walk, large bill, and association with the conservation movement, the pelican has attained iconic status. But as Barbara Allen reveals, this graceful skimmer of ocean waves has a checkered history. Originally classed as "unclean" in the King James Bible, the legend of the compassionate pelican was later appropriated by Christianity to symbolize Christ's sacrifice. This majestic bird, gifted to British royalty in 1664, has been celebrated in art and literature, from Shakespeare's King Lear to the writing of Edward Lear, and is the holder of three Guinness World Records. The pelican's anatomy has been copied for paper plane construction, aircraft design, and in 3D imaging, and its resilience is as remarkable as its make-up: the pelican has rallied against threats of extinction, habitat destruction, and environmental disasters such as the Deepwater Horizon oil spill. A must-read book for all bird enthusiasts, Barbara Allen's Pelican weaves together wildlife trivia, historical tales, and the latest research to provide an engaging, many-feathered account of this emblematic bird.
