The brochure has been prepared using research materials of the staff of the Noosphera Center - Arcady Petrov and Igor Arepyev. This is a summary of their joint experience and achievements in creating a new science - Cosmopsychobiology. In this booklet you will find concrete bio-informative techniques for the improvement of one's health in oncological diseases. But let us first expand our knowledge of this little known field of science. How do we help a person in the concrete work of our own practice? Through consciousness! We do not touch anyone. We do not give any pills or shots, but the person still becomes healthy. A thought alone can save someone's life.

one of the great men of the 20th century —and one of its great writers too. He was an anarchist, an agitator, a revolutionary, an exile, a historian of his times, as well as a brilliant novelist, and in Memoirs of a Revolutionary he devotes all his passion and genius to describing this extraordinary—and exemplary—career. Serge tells of his upbringing among exiles and conspirators, of his involvement with the notorious Bonnot Gang and his years in prison, of his role in the Russian Revolution, and of the Revolution's collapse into despotism and terror. Expelled from the Soviet Union, Serge went to Paris, where he evaded the KGB and the Nazis before fleeing to Mexico. Memoirs of a Revolutionary recounts a thrilling life on the front lines of history and includes vivid portraits not only of Trotsky, Lenin, and Stalin but of countless other figures who struggled to remake the world. Peter Sedgwick's fine translation of Memoirs of a Revolutionary was abridged when first published in 1963. This is the first edition in English to present the entirety of Serge's book.

Situated at the forefront of interdisciplinary research on ferromagnetic microwires and their multifunctional composites, this book starts with a comprehensive treatment of the processing, structure, properties and applications of magnetic microwires. Special emphasis is placed on the giant magnetoimpedance (GMI) effect, which forms the basis for developing high-performance magnetic sensors. After defining the key criteria for selecting microwires for various types of GMI sensors, the book illustrates how ferromagnetic microwires are employed as functional fillers to create a new class of composite materials with multiple functionalities for sensing and microwave applications. Readers are introduced to state-of-the-art fabrication methods, microwave tunable properties, microwave absorption and shielding behaviours, as well as the metamaterial characteristics of these newly developed ferromagnetic microwire composites. Lastly, potential engineering applications are proposed so as to highlight the most promising perspectives, current challenges and possible solutions.

From a unique set of circumstances, that would be impossible to duplicate, Soviet Art from 1930 to 1980 was the 20th century's major realist school of painting. It powerfully expresses itself with a simple clarity of pictorial language, consummate adeptness and truthful portrayal of life. The Soviet artist acted as a willing collaborator with and portrayer of the the aspirations of society. This contrasted with Western models where artists were typically alienated from their community.

Acceptance will come, using the Soviet phrase, because it is historically inevitable. It is already to a certain extent here with the pictures from the period increasingly passing through the sale rooms of Europe and North America. This book should give wider understanding of this underrated but artistically exciting movement in Soviet art.

Whatever we might be doing and wherever we might be going, we were moving toward one goal - to one's inner self, to remembering oneself. People who have lost the memory of their past and their future are akin to children who are ready, day after day, without ever tiring of it, to ride on their favorite carousel. Something always changes around us - one day the sun is out, the next it rains, the leaves appear on the trees and then fall off, first one set of people come along to see how these carefree folks who behave like children whirl on the carousel, and then others come to watch. We turn around a closed circle, squealing with delight at the speed, forgetting that at some point we were truly able to fly and that our exaggerated excitement is nothing but a vague memory of who we once were.

Arkady Petrov Penguin "Arkady Petrov (b.1940) is one of the most well-known artists from the "men of the seventies" generation, in whose creative work are reflected both unique individuality and the typical features of the art of this time. Over a few decades Petrov has been continuously evolving in painting, remaining, however, true to his selected themes. The main motif of Petrov's art is the life and culture of the Soviet province in the mid-XX century, more broadly, -the life of "the simple Soviet man" as the particular case of the "little man", one of the defining traditions in Russian culture. The artist brings new meaning to the stereotypes of Soviet Society, looking at them through the prism of kitsch subjects, images of national mass culture- from aniline coloured postcards to the portraits of Alla Pugacheva. Petrov transformed the impersonal aesthetics of kitsch into a gallery of distinctive and deeply perceived human types, at the same time naive and epic, into a unique section of the epoch." -- Book Jacket.

In ancient times it was assumed that the world stands on three elephants, or three columns, according to the Jewish Kabbalah. You can say that the world stands on whales, elephants or pillars - the essence will not change. Anyway, it isn't about animals but about the right and left hemispheres of the brain, the spinal cord and whether they are capable of harmonious functioning on the basis of CONSCIOUSNESS, meaning divine consciousness, of course. The left hemisphere manifests its function of logic through the scientific worldview. The right hemisphere displays its function through an intuitive perception of truth and through religious perception of the world. At first glance, they appear to be irreconcilable opposites. But if you look closely, you will see that the nonsense of atheistic views and the shocking demands for "sacrifice of the mind" are just two extreme manifestations of the same natural life source. And while the left brain hemisphere "hits against" its own mirror reflection, unable to overcome the BOUNDARY separating the worlds, it will continue to repeat the same old statements about atheism, physical foundations of the world, speed that cannot exceed the speed of light, and space and time as the medium of our existence, not even understanding that they are secondary to the CONSCIOUSNESS OF THE CREATOR, Who has created all this in the world and in relation to WHOM they are correlated, as consequence with cause.

Man maintains the homeostasis of the Universe. Adjustment of reality takes place through his consciousness. And man's every act and his every action is reflected upon the global levels of being, where planets, stars, and galaxies perform the role of atoms and cells. The Universe is the body of man's own existence on the global scale. If people understand and accept this, they become immortal.

Join Steven Tonsager for food, jokes, and healing in Intention Based Field Resonance Testing: The Magnification of the Whisper. Each chapter imagines a mealtime conversation between you and Mr. Tonsager as he explains how the language of numbers is used to magnify physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual healing. Through this series of informal and entertaining conversations, Tonsager explains the ways that he develops and uses number sequences to heal the underlying problems—incoherencies—caused by any number of factors, both past and present, that manifest in the body as stress and illness. Thanks to these conversations, you will begin to understand that in whisperology, science and spirituality share a common ground that connects us deeply with the Divine and with each other. In this common ground, there are no limits to transformation and healing. Particles Here and Beyond the Mirror Springer Tracing the development of the museum concept from the opening of The Louvre to the launch of Tate Modern, this accessible and succinct publication explores the museum's role and evolution within society. Encompassing curatorial, scholarly, political and cultural spheres, this volume addresses the concept of the museum from a variety of influences. In the first section, Schubert looks at the complex history of the museum in specific cities during critical moments; for instance, New York between 1930-50 as the Metropolitan Museum expanded and the Museum of Modern Art was founded. The second section focuses on the success and unprecedented development of the museum in the 1980s and 1990s in Europe and the United States, highlighting the need for cities and institutions to revise their programs in response to a surge of interest in the arts. The newly completed final section looks at the museum's current predicament ten years after The Curator's Egg was originally published in 2000, exploring the museum's evolution in a post 9/11 environment.
