ROBINSON JAIDEN

Rose Window Hands-On Art History

I was robbed of $125,000,000 and I can prove it. This is a true-life story of how I have gone from Heiress to Homeless. My father created an empire, he started out in his two-car garage in 1953. My parents were married for thirty years but their marriage ended in divorce. After the divorce, my four siblings and I helped our father's business grow tremendously. We were consistently rated at the top in quality and prompt delivery. We had everything going for us. We were respected in the industry and we prospered as a family. Over the years, my father amassed a fortune. When my father's health started to fail from the effects of Alzheimer's, an unscrupulous attorney working with my three older siblings produced a doctored estate plan along with illegally recorded real estate deeds. This attorney falsified company stock certificates and stole millions of dollars in cash assets. On May 10, 2011, the FBI apprehended my three older siblings. My younger sister and I had no idea what was happening but were entirely cut off from the family and the business with no communication whatsoever. Three months later, I was standing in front of a Federal Judge with no representation and no money. My family had filed multiple lawsuits against me. This was the start of my nightmare. After seventeen lawsuits in eight years, I wrote this memoir. After my father's death in 2013, my sister and I found out that our $125,000,000.00 inheritance share was gone. I was ordered to live under an alias name and to never publicly make any reference about my family or my last name again. In working with the FBI, they told me "if I knew what was good for me, I would keep my mouth shut." After eight years all the puzzle pieces fell into place. I have uncovered a blatant, organized white-collar scheme to strip me of my inheritance and blacken my good name. Come with me on my journey of how I have endlessly worked to uncover a corrupt system and expose a law firm and its dirty deeds. Putting undue stress on my family caused their sibling to go from Heiress to Homeless.

Against a backdrop of Islamophobia, Europeans are increasingly airbrushing from history their cultural debt to the Muslim world. But this legacy lives on in some of Europe's most recognizable buildings, from Notre-Dame Cathedral to the Houses of Parliament. This beautifully illustrated book reveals the Arab and Islamic roots of Europe's architectural heritage.

Diana Darke traces ideas and styles from vibrant Middle Eastern centers like Damascus, Baghdad and Cairo, via Muslim Spain, Venice and Sicily into Europe. She describes how medieval crusaders, pilgrims and merchants encountered Arab Muslim culture on their way to the Holy Land; and explores more recent artistic interaction between Ottoman and Western cultures, including Sir Christopher Wren's inspirations in the "Saracen" style of Gothic architecture. Recovering this long yet overlooked history of architectural "borrowing," Stealing from the Saracens is a rich tale of cultural exchange, shedding new light on Europe's greatest landmarks.

Relax and have fun coloring inspirational pictures and designs while becoming acquainted with exquisite stained glass windows from around the world. This coloring book is designed for children, teens, and adults, from kindergarten age to senior citizens. The 32 beautiful illustrations in this book were adapted from actual stained glass windows from some of the world's most magnificent Catholic and Christian cathedrals and churches dating from the Medieval and Renaissance to the Modern era. They include rose patterns, Gothic and floral designs, and Bible themes. There are also 20 gift cards to color and cut out. Cathedrals are generally designed to be spiritually touching and awe-inspiring with the idea to lift one's attention to the heavenly things. Sometimes one need only to step inside such splendid churches to feel a wonderful sense of inner peace. Many stained glass windows are also designed to teach about God, Bible stories, and the lives of the saints. As with the great cathedrals, the illustrations in this coloring book are intended to inspire the mind, sooth the heart, and uplift the spirit. With this book there are no rules on how to color, and you don't even need to stay in the lines. Feel free to use any colors or media you like such as crayons, colored pencils, felt-tip pens, or markers. The illustrations are printed on one side of the page on 60# library-quality, white paper. If using markers or paint, a sheet of paper may be inserted underneath the page while coloring it to protect the next page. Coloring is a great way to unwind and to express oneself artistically. Happy coloring!

A visually sensational study of the rose window both in its own right and as a central feature of Gothic architecture. Painton Cowen has dedicated his life to the study of rose windows. Here he presents the world's best-known rose windows in over 300 new photographs and line drawings—Paris (Notre Dame), Chartres, Reims, Strasbourg, Cologne, Florence, Siena, Palma de Mallorca, Santa Maria del Mar, and New York's St. John the Divine, as well as many lesser-known, but no less astonishing, examples. Every aspect of the rose window is covered, including its possible origins in the south of Europe, its flowering in thirteenth-century France, the diffusion of styles across Europe, and modern reinterpretations, as well as the powerful geometry behind the designs and the meanings specific to individual examples. Perennial favorites such as the windows at Chartres are dissected and discussed in detail. This book provides unique insights into the development and organization of the rose window and its central position in Gothic architecture through a lucid, illuminating text and carefully selected comparative material that covers the wealth of Gothic creative activity. It also explores the greater meaning of the rose window through numerology, scholasticism, and the concept of heavenly order. 350 illustrations, 300 in color.

Rose Window Coloring Book
 "This study investigates three significant influences on the creation of the rose windows of the Cathedral of Notre Dame at Chartres. The first area of influence lies in the cultural environment of the eleventh century, the second in the construction of the cathedral at Chartres, and the third in the medium of rose windows. The development of Gothic architecture is found within the cultural environment of the eleventh century. It began with the Abbey of St.-Denis as rebuilt by the Abbot Suger (1081-1151). Suger aspired to glorify both the Abbey of St.-Denis and the Crown of France. He positioned himself centrally in the cultural environment so as to forge a reality of those aspirations. St. Bernard of Clairvaux, leader of the ascetic Cistercian Order and the creator of the Cistercian style of art, influenced Suger's point of view regarding philosophical, theological and aesthetic matters. Suger favored the Neoplatonic philosophy of Pseudo-Dionysius the Areopagite, the "anagogical approach" in particular. That philosophy became the aesthetic basis for the reconstruction of the Abbey. The artistic and technical innovations Suger envisioned became an actuality with the rebuilding at Chartres. The cathedral at Chartres contributed a history, a circumstance and physical features that were solely its own. In 1194 the cathedral burned. When rebuilt the edifice presented more height and width than any other cathedral of that time. The new expanse of space was made rich with Gothic Style stained glass, including three rose windows. Stylistically and iconographically the rose windows at Chartres drew from within the history of all rose windows. Technically the windows reflected the techniques of the stained glass craft. It is the conclusion of this thesis that significant influences on the creation of the rose windows of the Cathedral of Notre Dame at Chartres are to be found in Gothic architecture as represented by the Abbey of St.-Denis and as influenced by the Abbot Suger; in the unique history, circumstances and physical features of the Cathedral of Notre Dame at Chartres; and in the techniques of the craft of making stained glass, in the history of rose windows and in the iconography of the times"-- Document.

The Detroit area boasts many fine examples of stained glass representing a variety of periods and styles. The European stained glass collection at the Detroit Institute of Arts ranks amongst the most important in the United States. Churches and synagogues contain panels from notable designers and studios, and exquisite glass can also be found in many public and private buildings like the Detroit Public Library, Cranbrook House, the Guardian Building, and the David Whitney, Jr., house. Discovering Stained Glass in Detroit contains sixty examples of the area's stained glass treasures, each stunningly presented in full color. Author Nola Huse Tutag accompanies each illustration with an explanatory text. Line drawings illustrate the buildings where the panels are located. The windows represent works by designers such as Louis Comfort Tiffany, Charles J. Connick, Frank Lloyd Wright, Henry Matisse, as well as those from European and American studios.
