The themes of the fables deal with the necessary changes we all must go through in our lives. By showing the effects of change in humans, animals, and even in normally inanimate objects such as lighthouses, we encourage children to think of themselves as part of nature, to care for it, and to think about the ways in which we all interact with the world and with each other. Whilst they are designed to be read to small children and for older children to read by themselves. In the schools, the fables have been used as educational teaching materials that serve the learning experience and the understanding of the relationships between man and nature. The responsibility for each other is evident in all fables. The rainbow serves as symbol of hope and the power of implementation. Palliative Care Routledge

In its brief but vigorous history, gerontology has spawned a broadening range of specializations. One of the newest of such specializations is narrative gerontology, so named for its emphasis on the biographical, or inside, dimensions of the experience of aging. Telling stories about our world, our relationships, and ourselves is fundamental to how we make meaning. Everything from our history to our religion and our memories to our emotions is linked to the tales we tell ourselves, and others, about where we have come from and where we are going. They are central to who we are. The biographical side of human life is every bit as critical to fathom as the biological side, if we seek a more balanced, positive, and optimistic perspective on what aging is about; if we would honor the dignity and complexity, the humanity and uniqueness of the lives of older persons, no matter what their health or economic standing. In this respect, a narrative approach is particularly suited to the exploration of such topics as meaning, spirituality, and wisdom, and the connections they share. This volume reflects a selection of new directions and insights, and constitutes a general broadening and deepening of narrative gerontology, exploring its implications for theory and research in the field of aging, and for the quality of life of older adults themselves. Such deepening indicates a greater refinement of thought, method, and intervention. The evolution of narrative gerontology is also evidenced by a significant increase in the number of faculty and graduate students engaged in research in this area, as well as by increasing collaboration among researchers, practitioners, and administrators in applying narrative insights to contexts such as long term care - indeed, healthcare in general. These initiatives have given rise to the phrase, "narrative care as core care".

With the growth of practitioner research, this book leads the way by addressing key issues faced by 'insider researchers' - those doing research projects in the organizations and communities in which they themselves work, or where they are already familiar with the setting. The authors explore the implications of these research contexts, and discuss approaches and methodologies that researchers in these contexts might adopt, with a particular focus on ethics - one of the key concerns for students undertaking a research project of this type.

This coherent presentation of clinical judgement, caring practices and collaborative practice provides ideas and images that readers can draw upon in their interactions with others and in their interpretation of what nurses do. It includes many clear, colorful examples and describes the five stages of skill acquisition, the nature of clinical judgement and experiential learning and the seven major domains of nursing practice. The narrative method captures content and contextual issues that are often missed by formal models of nursing knowledge. The book uncovers the knowledge embedded in clinical nursing practice and provides the Dreyfus model of skill acquisition applied to nursing, an interpretive approach to identifying and describing clinical knowledge, nursing functions, effective management, research and clinical practice, career development and education, plus practical applications. For nurses and healthcare professionals.

Pflegepädagogik ist die zentrale Disziplin in der Bildung von LehrerInnen und AusbilderInnen in der Pflege und zur Lehre in der Aus-, Fort- und Weiterbildung von zukünftigen Pflegefachpersonen, Pflegeassistenten und Pflegeexperten. Die Fachliteratur zur Pflegepädagogik ist wenig umfassend und grundlegend, sondern stark fragmentiert, auf Teilbereiche spezialisiert und eklektizistisch, mehr affirmativ als kritisch. Es fehlt ein Werk, das kritisch das Feld der Pflegepädagogik analysiert, historische Wurzeln offenlegt, systematisch Teilbereiche und Rollen identifiziert, Methoden hinterfragt und darstellt sowie für Studierende und Lehrende einen Gesamtüberblick über die Disziplin der Pflegepädagogik gibt. Der erfahrene Professor für Pflegepädagogik, -wissenschaft und Pädagogik an der FH Hochschule Ludwigshafen und der Universität Hall nimmt mit diesem Buch eine solche Auslotung des Feldes der Pflegepädagogik vor und schafft ein Grundlagenwerk für das Studium der Pflegepädagogik. Er bietet eine fundierte kritische Analyse und Darstellung des Lehr- und Handlungsfeldes der Pflegepädagogik aus einem Guss. What gaps in knowledge about LGBT ageing remain? This timely and innovative book reports on a project funded by the Economic and Social Research Council which aimed to address gaps in knowledge about older LGBT people and their experiences of ageing. The book discusses the project and contains chapters either specially commissioned or written by leading researchers and activists in the field. Informed by a range of theoretical perspectives, empirical research studies, critical observations as well as lived experiences, this book explores areas of LGBT ageing that have been understudied. These include: bisexual ageing; trans ageing and older trans people's mental health; ethnicity, culture and religion in the lives of older LGBT people and gaps in knowledge about older LGBT people from minority ethnic communities; intergenerational networks; residential and end-of-life care; and the effects of austerity on services. Written in an accessible style, this book is essential for researchers and policy makers interested in the lives of older LGBT people, people who work with older people and teachers and students interested in ageing, gender identity and sexuality.

News from the Rainbow World adeo Focusing on terminally ill people in a German hospice, this study addresses the question, how meaningful experience is constructed for these patients in an attempt to preserve their dignity as persons. It is based on material from diary texts and active participation of the author in the role of a nurse.

This groundbreaking resource presents a wealth of findings and perspectives previously unseen in the LGBT literature. Its focus on psychological, sociopolitical and care delivery issues affecting LGBT elders reveals both the nuanced interplay between diverse sources of identity and multiple sources of stigma and discrimination. Specific chapters highlight challenges and resiliencies impacting subpopulations (e.g., racial groups, veterans, immigrants), examine employment and advocacy issues, discuss later-life concerns in context and offer guidelines for relevant, ethical practice. Contributors represent a wide range of fields from psychiatry and gerontology to public health and public policy, reflecting the scope and needs of this diverse and complex population. Among the topics in the Handbook: Family relationships of older LGBT adults. The intersection of identities: race, age, sexuality and care network. Bisexuality: an invisible community among LGBT elders. Implications of the Supreme Court ruling on same-sex marriage. No money, no work and you're old. Disabilities among LGBT elders: responses of medicine, public health, rehabilitation and social work. Handbook of LGBT Elders is an essential reference for mental health professionals, psychologists and social workers who work with the LGBT community and the elderly, as well as researchers interested in the LGBT community and aging.

Die Reihe "Pflege fallorientiert lernen und lehren" folgt dem innovativen pflegedidaktischen Prinzip der Kompetenz- und Handlungsorientierung: Die Arbeit mit Musterlösungen wird erstmals für den Pflegebereich anwendungsbezogen erklärt. Der Leitfaden bietet Hilfestellungen für die Unterrichtsgestaltung. Er stellt fallorientierte Unterrichtsverfahren und methodische Ansätze (Fallarbeit nach Kaiser, POL, szenisches Spiel, Dilemmadiskussion) vor. Anregungen zur Praxisverknüpfung ermöglichen den Transfer fallorientiert entwickelter Kompetenzen in die konkrete Handlungspraxis. ContentPLUS beinhaltet Übungsaufgaben und Checklisten.

In the absence of accurate information, American culture has upheld a distorted view of what it means to be an older gay man. Gay and Gray is the first and only scholarly full-length treatment of older gay men in America today. It breaks the stereotype that older gay men are strange, lonely creatures and reveals that most older gay men are well-adjusted to their homosexuality and the aging process.

Eine gesunde, sportliche Frau kann nicht mehr wie gewohnt atmen. Die niederschmetternde Diagnose: Lungenfibrose. Unheilbar. Ohne Spenderlunge keine Überlebenschance. Dann geht alles bergab: Sie wird frühverrentet, muss ihren Beruf aufgeben, den sie liebt. Nichts ist mehr, wie sie es geplant hatte, ihr Leben hängt plötzlich an einem seidenen Faden. Der einzige Ausweg ist eine Organspende, eine Lungentransplantation, und die Chance darauf mitten in der Corona-Pandemie ist mehr als gering. Dennoch weigert sich Roswitha Jerusel, die Hoffnung aufzugeben. Ihr Wunsch an Gott: Einmal wieder tief und befreit Luft holen können. Und das Wunder geschieht tatsächlich. Die Biografie einer Frau, die völlig unerwartet ein neues Leben geschenkt bekam. Und ein leuchtendes Hoffnungsbuch. Voller Wertschätzung weitet es den Blick für die kleinen, scheinbar selbstverständlichen Dinge im Leben, die letztendlich oft das größte Glück beinhalten.

Annual Review of Nursing Research, Volume 25, 2007 Routledge

This 25th anniversary edition of the Annual Review of Nursing Research is focused on nursing science in vulnerable populations. Identified as a priority in the nursing discipline, vulnerable populations are discussed in terms of the development of nursing science, diverse approaches in building the state of the science research, integrating biologic methods in the research, and research in reducing health disparities. Topics include: Measurement issues Prevention of infectious diseases among vulnerable populations Genomics and proteomics methodologies for research Promoting culturally appropriate interventions Community-academic research partnerships with vulnerable populations Vulnerable populations in Thailand: women living with HIV/AIDS As in all volumes of the Annual Reviews, leading nurse researchers provide students, other researchers, and clinicians with the foundations for evidence-based practice and further research.

The transnational approach has led to the emergence of new historical research areas and topics. With the concept of "transfer history", there has been a growing interest in historical studies of religious communities because they were early "global players". Originating typically in France, many Catholic sisterhoods settled in numerous other European and non-European countries. Likewise,

Protestant deaconess motherhouses became a popular German export in the nineteenth century. The contributions to this anthology examine the transnational history of the deaconess movement, focusing on the example of Protestant deaconesses who worked as nurses. Focal point is a nursing organisation that was founded in the 1830s in Germany, but was subsequently exported to many European and even non-European countries. If the deaconess motherhouses wanted to stand a chance of survival in these countries, they had to adapt to the specific cultural and societal contexts. Due to these adaptation processes, the deaconess motherhouses are particularly suitable for an international comparative and transfer history. Honored in 2017 with the Mary M. Roberts Award for Exemplary Historical Scholarship and Writing from the American Association for the History of Nursing (AAHN)

These songlines 'sing' into history the personal story of Action Learning and Research (ALAR) by an ALAR founder, Ortrun Zuber-Skerritt. Revealed through a collection of interviews conducted by scholars from six countries, these engaging, informative, intimate stories record her ALAR journey to document history and, more importantly, to help develop skills and innovation in workplace/community and lifelong learning for everyone, including the disadvantaged and poorest. Reviewers comments: This book is a must read for action researchers of all stripes and experience levels. Ortrun Zuber-Skerritt, a principal architect of ALAR who has pushed the boundaries of AR conceptually and methodologically, has now created a unique book built out of orchestrated interviews that provide us with much insight into who she is, why and how to learn from her, and invitation to collaborate in further developing our practice for the benefit of everyone.
