This test preparation guide is designed to assist security guards in preparing for theministry's mandatory test. The guide will outline key areas that security guards shouldbe familiar with to ensure they perform their duties in accordance with the PrivateSecurity and Investigative Services Act, 2005 (PSISA) and its regulations.The subjects covered align with the ministry's Training Syllabus for Security Guards.Although the guide is meant to assist candidates in preparing for and writing the test, itdoes not constitute a training manual, and is not a substitute for an in-person trainingcourse.At the end of each section of this test preparation guide, you will find links to externalresources that may be of further assistance to you. Many of these will bring you tovarious laws and regulations; it is recommended that you have an overall understandingof these and how they relate to key topics covered in the test.Other links will bring you to existing training materials available to the public. Whilethese materials may contain valuable information, please keep in mind that they were not specifically designed for Ontario's security guard and private investigator training and testing program. About the Test The ministry's tests were developed by subject matter experts (SMEs) in the private security and investigative services industry who worked with the ministry's test development consultant, CASTLE Worldwide Inc. The SMEs developed the test questions using a protocol of writing and review that conforms to the best practices of psychological and test development standards. They comprehensively reviewed and validated each question for appropriateness of the answers and correct answer keys. A panel of SMEs also reviewed and tested the questions and participated in setting the cut scores (pass marks) for the tests. The security guard test is in a written, 60 question, multiple choice format. Test appointments are 2 hours in duration, 75 minutes of which is the allotted test completion time.

From 1945 through 1962, the US atmospheric nuclear weapons testing program involved hundreds of thousands of military and civilian personnel, and some of them were exposed to ionizing radiation. Veterans' groups have since been concerned that their members' health was affected by radiation exposure associated with participation in nuclear tests and have pressured Congress for disability compensation. Several pieces of legislation have been passed to compensate both military and civilian personnel for such health effects. Veterans' concerns about the accuracy of reconstructed doses prompted Congress to have the General Accounting Office (GAO) review the dose reconstruction program used to estimate exposure. The GAO study concluded that dose reconstruction is a valid method of estimating radiation dose and could be used as the basis of compensation. It also recommended an independent review of the dose reconstruction program. The result of that recommendation was a congressional mandate that the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA), a part of the Department of Defense, ask the National Research Council to conduct an independent review of the dose reconstruction program. In response to that request, the National Research Council established the Committee to Review the Dose Reconstruction Program of the Defense Threat Reduction Agency in the Board on Radiation Effects Research (BRER). The committee randomly selected sample records of doses that had been reconstructed by DTRA and carefully evaluated them. The committee's report describes its findings and provides responses to many of the questions that have been raised by the veterans.
